

Since a major mandate for the Amateur Radio Service is emergency and disaster communications, shouldn't cw morse code, still proven among the top few effective modes of emergency communication, be a required element for members of this service? Yes. In fact, it should even be reinstated for VHF and above licenses!